Panel Discussion with Archivists on Selection, Access and Use of Archives

Join a special session of JLU's "Archives: Gatekeepers of the Past?" for a panel discussion from behind the scenes at three London archives. We will be joined by:

ELENA CARTER

Wellcome Collection

Elena is Collections Development Archivist at Wellcome Collection, whose role focuses on developing the library's holdings to challenge how we think and feel about health. Elena has an interest in how archival materials relate to power and marginalization and whose voices are in(ex)cluded in our histories. Elena has written on activist approaches to archiving and lived experience in mental health and art

PETER JUDGE

Lloyds Banking Group

Peter has worked at Lloyds Banking Group Archives for almost four years, whose archive collections deal mainly with financial and economic history. Previous collections he has worked on covered topics such as physiotherapy, the history of childbirth and psychoanalysis. With a background in software development, he is now responsible for the deployment of LGB's digital preservation system.

NOEMI ORTEGA-RAVENTOS

British Library Qatar Foundation

Noemi currently works as an archivist at the British Library (BL) at the BL Qatar Foundation Partnership Program. She is also the Group Director for the UK, USA, and Australia at Archivos Magazine. Noemi received her MA in Archives and Document Management from ESAGED/Autonomous University of Barcelona, where she also received degrees in History and Medieval Cultures.
